Restoration Through Ink

By Cashmere Morley

Identity, as defined by the Oxford Dictionary, is “the fact of being who or what a person or thing is.” As a society, now more than ever, the meaning of one’s identity has never been more fluid or more open to interpretation. What defines someone’s identity? The answer is different for everyone. But for those asking that question, tattoo artist Jamie Wedge at the Lovely Monkey Tattoo in Whitmore Lake is hoping to provide a solution.

Wedge specializes in areola and nipple restoration tattoos. Her clients include women, men, and transgender people who have had “breast reconstruction, mastectomies, and other breast surgeries.”

A tattoo artist since 2006, Wedge’s portfolio consisted mainly of illustrative and floral pieces up until 2016. Coincidentally, that was the year that shop owner Dana Forrester opened the Lovely Monkey Tattoo, in Whitmore Lake, a sister-store to Ann Arbor’s Lucky Monkey Tattoo. 2016 would end up changing the course of Wedge’s career. It all began with a client who came to Wedge asking to cover cancer scars.

“During her cancer battle, she had breast reduction surgery,” Wedge explained. “She had a lot of breast tissue left over, which was great. But they took her areola away.” The areola is defined as the “small circular area, in particular the ring of pigmented skin surrounding a nipple.”

“She asked me to cover [the cancer scars] up with imagery. This process took about six months. Over that time, I got to know more about her, and about her sister, who was going through the same thing, but she had a completely different situation.” That client ended up requesting a realistic areola tattoo, to replace her nipple loss.

After working with that client and learning more about her story, Wedge realized the impact her areola tattoos could have. Restoring that part of a woman’s body through art became an empowering moment for the both of them.

“Working with her,” said Wedge, “I realized that I needed to do something more.” Enter Dana Forrester.

Forrester just so happened to be searching for an artist who could tackle the challenges that come with realistic areola tattoos. Up until that experience with her client, Wedge had not considered areola tattoos as a great need, but here was Forrester, searching for an artist to regularly produce such a tattoo.

The space Lovely Monkey occupies was once a five-and-dime. Then an ice cream shop. But now, in its current incarnation, the little red and white Victorian-style building that houses the tattoo shop adds a punch of femininity to Whitmore Lake’s downtown scene. The Lovely Monkey is similar to its sister store, in that the shop is known for producing some of the most vibrant, creative, professional tattoo experiences in the area. But, Lovely Monkey sets itself apart by being women-run and women-focused. Once open, Forrester began seeking an artist who could mesh femininity with this unique method of tattooing to bring a slice of female empowerment not just to Whitmore Lake, but Michigan in general, in a way that had never been seen before in the tattoo world.

After 15 years in the tattoo business, Forrester saw a need for artists who could tattoo realistic-looking nipples. Forrester, who co-owns her tattoo shops with husband James Trunko, lost her sister-in-law Mary Clare Greenblatt, to breast cancer. After that, her mission to fill the void for a good nipple tattoo artist became a personal one. Now, she views this style of tattoo as one that not only brings peace and light to a stranger’s life, but one that continues to honor Mary.

Areola tattoos require a knowledge of 3D realism. Pair that with the fact that the tattoo area is a sensitive one, both physically and emotionally, so the tattoo becomes a challenging piece, for even some of the most seasoned tattoo artists.

Improve Your Mental Health with Mood Lifters

By Jacob Rich

If you have ever sought professional mental health care in Ann Arbor, you know that the process of finding the right therapist, psychiatrist, or support group can be challenging. The search often runs up against lengthy wait lists and hours of calling seemingly open therapy groups that turn out to be full once they finally call back. And since the pandemic started, demand for therapy skyrocketed and providers with open slots for new patients dried up—and it seems like that deficit has only worsened over time.

Dr. Patricia Deldin, Professor of Psychology and Psychiatry at the University of Michigan and Deputy Director of the Eisenberg Family Depression Center, understands this problem better than most after years as an expert in the field.

“The number one complaint I hear in my role at the Depression Center is that it takes weeks or months for people to get care. These are people who might be very troubled, and they still can’t find help. Ironically, if you look at a map of the United States where they show how many providers they have per capita, you see in Washtenaw County that we supposedly have enough. But tell that to the people who are waiting six weeks to get in or are on indefinite wait lists. Every single provider I know has long waitlists for care in Washtenaw County.”

This is but one of the many problems facing the mental health care profession that Dr. Deldin has aimed to fix with Mood Lifters, a revolutionary new holistic mental health care program that has already treated over 1,000 people—primarily in Washtenaw County. It has the potential to make a serious dent in solving the issue of access to care, and the program is growing each year.

“Mood Lifters was born out of the frustration of seeing a lack of access to high quality care that’s evidence based. I had found recent success in Weight Watchers and found that its peer support system had really made a difference in my health—I lost 35 pounds. I wanted to apply a similar structure to mental health, using the best evidence-based strategies known to science in a supportive environment like Weight Watchers. That was the initial spark for creating Mood Lifters.”

After signing up for Mood Lifters, participants join a small group of peers for a 15-week, one hour each week course of meetings in which they learn key science-based techniques for improving mood and reducing depression and anxiety. “I believe that one of the problems with traditional therapy is that it tends to focus on one-dimensional treatment rather than a holistic approach that covers biological, psychological, and social treatments,” Dr. Deldin said. “We look at the big picture of mental wellness and explore all avenues of getting better—for example, we emphasize how running daily has proven to be as effective or more effective than traditional psychological medication.”

Mood Lifters’ website and promotional materials are filled with quotes from people who have found success in the program. As one participant put it, “Mood Lifters saved my life.” Yet another: “I find that I am more equipped and empowered to resist spiraling into a dark place.”

reducing depression in online meetings as it was in person.

“We have found that the gold standard in the field is to reduce symptoms of psychiatric illness with behavioral treatment by 25%. When I first created Mood Lifters I thought of it as therapy lite. My goal was to help reduce even just by 15-25%, in the sense that we had a low-cost highly accessible program and reducing symptoms by any amount was meaningful. It turns out that, even online, that’s what happens for people who are in the mild range—a 25% reduction. But when we get to moderate or severe range, we lower depression and anxiety by about 50% and in some online populations up to 65%. So that effectiveness is really impressive in my field.”

If you are looking to improve your mental wellness in 2022, consider joining a Mood Lifters group. Dr. Deldin noted that there are plenty of ways for locals to get involved.

“Right now, we’re running groups for adults through our Ann Arbor office, on Zoom. We’re also working with Beaumont Health hospitals, which are providing free Mood Lifters groups for people living in their local communities. In

When Dr. Deldin sees the success that many of her participants have had, it hits home for her.

“I recently was in a situation where I could not find care for family members who needed it in New York and Maryland that was evidence-based. It’s frustrating because we have things that work for people. It’s not perfect but it can work really well and help a lot of people reduce their suffering. And it was really disheartening that those people that I loved didn’t have access to high-quality care. These illnesses have high morbidity rates, but they are also highly treatable. It’s an excruciating combination to see. 20% of people with bipolar disorder are likely to die by suicide. And if we can prevent even one of those, it’s definitely worth it.”

Dr. Deldin mentioned that one of her proudest accomplishments so far with Mood Lifters has been the Palliative Care group, a group that supports adults with children in palliative care or other serious medical conditions, supported by the University of Michigan Palliative Care Program for Children. Dr. Ken Pituch, Attending Pediatrician at CS Mott Children’s Hospital, was one of the organizers of this collaboration.

“More than 30 parents of my patients have participated in one of the 15-week groups,” he said in a testimonial for Mood Lifters. “All of them were incredibly enthusiastic about how helpful it was for them. Parents of medically complex kids have little time to attend to their own health and mental health needs—this program fills a much-needed space!”

Like many local businesses, Mood Lifters had to make major pivots after the pandemic. They had to quickly shift from in-person group meetings to online-only. But, unlike the many services that were forced to offer limited or inferior service, Mood Lifters has shown with data to be just as effective in addition, we’re continuing to provide free support with the Palliative Care group through the University. In terms of our research, we’re running a randomized control trial for people with Bipolar Disorder, and another study specifically for graduate students and young professionals age 22-32. A randomized control trial is basically the gold standard way to determine if a treatment works. Also in development right now are unique programs for specialized groups: kids, teens, seniors, and athletes.”

Everyone can go to www.moodlifters.com to find out more about the program. If there are folks with any questions or if they have financial need they should reach out to info@moodlifters.com.

If you live near a branch of the Beaumont Health system, you can participate in an upcoming group for free by going to <https://moodlifters.com/calendar-of-meetings/> and scrolling to the Beaumont section.

If you are interested in participating in one of the upcoming studies for bipolar disorder, you have to be in the Prechter Bipolar Program in order to participate. Visit the Prechter Bipolar website to join that study: <https://medicine.umich.edu/dept/prechter-program/bipolar-research/bipolar-disorder-research-projects/longitudinal-study-bipolar-disorder>

Parents of children in Palliative care can join a specialized group for free at <https://moodlifters.corsizio.com/c/6182b8ac85a6c651e7c2c777>.

For grad students and young working adults age 22-32, Mood Lifters is looking for participants for our study on their demographic. They can visit <https://UMHealthResearch.org/#studies/HUM00163570> or reach out to Neema Prakash via email at epicsinterest@gmail.com

Calendar Editor / Social Media Manager Wanted!

The Crazy Wisdom Community Journal is looking for a detail-oriented Calendar Editor, and for that person to also be our Social Media manager and the editor for our Ann Arbor Holistic website—a person who is interested in the holistic and conscious living subjects we cover. This job entails 25-35 hours of work on each issue of The Crazy Wisdom Community Journal (we publish 3 issues per year) plus 5 hours per week as our Social Media manager and Ann Arbor Holistic website editor.

This person will work closely with our Managing Editor on the Calendar, upload calendar events to our online community calendar; send out deadline reminders; reach out to holistic practitioners; and help build online presence for the Ann Arbor Holistic website.

In terms of Social Media, this person will be posting many times a week to various platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest, and elsewhere. She/he will be working to build more readership for our Crazy Wisdom BiWeekly and Crazy Wisdom Community Journal content.

This person, as our Calendar Editor, would be in charge of compiling and editing the seasonal community calendar for our readership—somewhere between 300 and 550 listings per issue. We are looking for someone who has an interest in local events, knows how to use Google sheets and forms, is familiar with Word, and is a good proofreader. Experience with Wordpress and/or Squarespace website platforms is a bonus, but we are willing to train the right person. Online marketing experience a plus. You must own your own computer and have reliable internet and phone service, as this is a work-from-home position, and you must be local to the wider Ann Arbor area.

If you are a team player and are interested in this position, please email a letter of interest, and a resume with relevant work experience, to Jennifer@crazywisdom.net. (This job pays reasonably well, but it is a very part-time position.)

LAKE SUPERIOR
STATE UNIVERSITY

If you're going to turn to the vernacular to make yourself known, be sure you're accurate and concise. Avoid error in and exploitation of everyday language. In short, do the opposite of what the public and the media did this year.

The irked and the amused from around the country and across the world sent that mock-serious message in their entries for Lake Superior State University's annual tongue-in-cheek Banished Words List. LSSU announces the results of the yearly compendium on Dec. 31 to start the New Year on the right foot, er, tongue.

Common parlance dominated submissions for the past 12 months. More than 1,000 of the 1,250-plus nominations of words and terms for banishment for misuse, overuse, and uselessness for 2022 were colloquial.

The No. 1 offender: "Wait, what?" These two four-letter words should not go together under any circumstances, according to many nominators and the contest judges from the LSSU English Department, because the two-part halting interrogative is disingenuous, divergent, deflective, and other damning words that begin with the letter d.

"Most people speak through informal discourse. Most people shouldn't misspeak through informal discourse. That's the distinction nominators far and wide made, and our judges agreed with them," said Peter Szatmary, executive director of marketing and communications at LSSU.

"Also, seven of the 10 words and terms that LSSU banished last year reflected real-world concerns about COVID-19, while three could be categorized as quotidian. This year, as the global pandemic persists along with adaptations to it, the inverse occurred. Seven of the 10 words and terms to be banished are more conversational-based, with the other three applying to the coronavirus," he added. "One possible takeaway from all this about the act and art and science of disclosing something is the more things change, the more things stay the same. At the very least, it's complicated."

LSSU has compiled an annual Banished Words List since 1976 to uphold, protect, and support excellence in language by encouraging avoidance of words and terms that are overworked, redundant, oxymoronic, clichéd, illogical, nonsensical—and otherwise ineffective, baffling, or irritating. Over the decades, LSSU has received tens of thousands of nominations for the list, which now totals more than 1,000 entries. Examples of the winners (or should that be losers?) to make the yearly compilation: "detente," "surely," "classic," "bromance," and "COVID-19," plus "wrap my head around," "user friendly," "at this point in time," "not so much," and "viable alternative." The Banished Words List has become such a cultural phenomenon that comedian George Carlin submitted an entry that made the annals in 1994: "baddaboom, baddabing."

This year, nominations came from most major U.S. cities and many U.S. states, on top of Norway, Belgium, England, Scotland, Australia, and numerous provinces in Canada. Here are the list of the banished words and terms for 2022 and the reasons for their banishment:

Wait, what?

Most frequently found in text or on social media, this ubiquitous imperative question is a failed "response to a statement to express astonishment, misunderstanding, or disbelief," explained a wordsmith. "I hate it," added another, because the command query is an inexact method to convey the utterer's uncertainty or surprise. "I don't want to wait," either, continued the second impassioned nominator. Misuse and overuse.

No worries

Nominated by writers nationwide for misuse and overuse, this phrase incorrectly substitutes for "You're welcome" when someone says "Thank you." A further bungling relates to insensitivity. "If I'm not worried, I don't want anyone telling me not to worry," a contributor explicated. "If I am upset, I want to discuss being upset." Despite its meaninglessness, the term is recommended to emailers by Google Assistant.

At the end of the day

Twenty-plus years after original banishment of this phrase in 1999, the day still isn't over for this misused, overused, and useless expression. "Many times things don't end at the end of the day—or even the ramifications of whatever is happening," observed a sage. Others consider "day" an imprecise measure. Today? Present times? Banishment in 1999: overused synopsis of a conversation or debate, often by politicians and pundits.

That being said

Nominators cited this phrase as verbal filler, redundant justification, and pompous posturing. For instance, "however" or "but—even "that said"—does the job as a transition instead of the wordiness. "Go ahead and say what you want already!" demanded one entrant. That being said, its usefulness is certainly in doubt. As a commentator philosophized, "At the end of the day, if you will, it already has been."

Asking for a friend

Misuse and overuse through deceit—because the friend is a ruse. This cutesy phrase, often deployed in social media posts in a coy attempt to deter self-identification, isn't fooling anyone. Paraphrasing one sage, "Once used to avoid embarrassment, as in, 'Do you know a good proctologist? I'm asking for a friend.' Sometimes an occasional sitcom joke. Now an overused tag with absolutely no relationship to its antecedent."

Circle back

Treats colloquy like an ice skating rink, as if we must circle back to our previous location to return to a prior subject. Let's circle back about why to banish this jargon. It's a conversation, not the Winter Olympics. Opined a grammarian, "The most overused phrase in business, government, or other organization since 'synergy'" —which we banished in 2002 as evasive blanket terminology and smarty-pants puffery.

Deep dive

"The only time to dive into something is when entering a body of water, not going more in-depth into a particular subject or book," admonished a petitioner. Another stipulated that people who float the phrase aren't near pool, lake, ocean, or sea; thus, rather than dive deeply, they flounder shallowly. An editing whiz wondered, "Do we need 'deep'? I mean, does anyone dive into the shallow end?"

2022 Banished Words and Terms Deriving from COVID-19 Matters:

New normal

Overused catchall for ways COVID-19 affects humankind—and banishment finalist last year for similar reasons. "Those clamoring for the days of old, circa 2019, use this to signal unintentionally that they haven't come to terms with what 'normal' means," a monitor elucidated. "After a couple of years, is any of this really 'new'?" another speculated. Banished in 2012 for imprudence, defeatism, and apathy stemming from societal missteps.

You're on mute

People switched from in-person exchanges to virtual meetings to follow the social distancing protocol of COVID-19, and the unwitting deafening silence happens on both sides of the camera. Overuse and uselessness, then, due to ineptitude. A discerning submitter encapsulated the issue: "We're two years into remote working and visiting. It's time for everyone to figure out where the mute button is." Or as a quipster summarized, "Hello? Hello?"

Supply chain

Word-watchers noticed the frequent, unfortunate appearance of this phrase toward the end of this year as the coronavirus persisted. "It's become automatically included in reporting of consumer goods shortages or perceived shortages. In other words, a buzzword," concluded one analyst. "Supply chain issues have become the scapegoat of everything that doesn't happen or arrive on time and of every shortage," noticed another. The adverse result: overuse ad nauseam.

"Say what you mean and mean what you say. Can't get any easier, or harder, than that," said LSSU President Dr. Rodney S. Hanley. "Every year submitters play hard at suggesting what words and terms to banish by paying close attention to what humanity utters and writes. Taking a deep dive at the end of the day and then circling back make perfect sense. Wait, what?"

Mark Nepo,

Author ~ Philosopher ~ Spiritual Leader ~
Poet ~ Storyteller

OFFERING FEBRUARY WORKSHOP / TALKS IN ANN ARBOR

By Margie Teall

With over a million copies sold, Mark Nepo has moved and inspired readers and seekers all over the world with his #1 New York Times bestseller The Book of Awakening. Beloved as a poet, teacher and storyteller, Mark has been called "one of the finest spiritual guides of our time," "a consummate storyteller," "an eloquent spiritual teacher," and enjoys the moniker of "one of Oprah's Favorite Things."

Nepo is conducting a workshop entitled "Pain, Fear and Things as They Are," on Saturday, February 19 from 1:00—5:00pm at the First Unitarian Universalist Congregation of Ann Arbor (UUAA) (4001 Ann Arbor Saline Road). For those who prefer a virtual presence, a zoom link will be provided via the registration process.

The workshop aims to uncover and personalize pathways that allow each of us to right-size our own pain and fear, so that we are not crippled by it, or drowning in it, but rather living with it and still moving forward -- fully present in what life is offering us now.

Registration and required covid protocols at www.uuaa.org/nepoevent.

Nepo will also be featured on Sunday, February 20 at 9:30am and again at 11:30am services at the UUAA Church on Ann Arbor Saline Road. No registration is required to attend Sunday services, but seating is limited and covid protocols will be required. Both services will be livestreamed via a link at www.uuaa.org.

As a bestselling New York Times author, Mark has published twenty-two books and recorded fifteen audio projects. In 2015, he was given a Life-Achievement Award by AgeNation. In 2016, he was named by Watkins: Mind Body Spirit as one of the 100 Most Spiritually Influential Living People and was also chosen as one of OWN's SuperSoul 100, a group of inspired leaders using their gifts and voices to elevate humanity. And In 2017 Mark became a regular columnist for Spirituality & Health Magazine.

Crazy Wisdom Book Pick of the Week

A new edition of the #1 NYT's bestseller by Mark Nepo, who has been called "one of the finest spiritual guides of our time" and "a consummate storyteller."

Philosopher-poet and cancer survivor Mark Nepo opens a new season of freedom and joy—an escape from deadening, asleep-at-the-wheel sameness—that is both profound and clarifying.

His spiritual daybook is a summons to reclaim aliveness, liberate the self, take each day one at a time, and savor the beauty offered by life's unfolding. Reading his poetic prose is like being given second sight, exposing the reader to life's multiple dimensions, each one drawn with awe and affection.

The Book of Awakening is the result of Nepo's journey of the soul and will inspire others to embark on their own. He speaks of spirit and friendship, urging readers to stay vital and in love with this life, no matter the hardships. Encompassing many traditions and voices, Nepo's words offer insight on pain, wonder, and love. Each entry is accompanied by an exercise that will surprise and delight the reader in its mind-waking ability.

Ceremonies, Celebrations, and Rituals

Tea Ceremony at Verapose Yoga and Meditation House with Courtney Fitzpatrick • February 20, April 23 • 4 - 5:15 p.m. •

An opportunity to enjoy the joyfully simple act of tea drinking. We leave the complexity of life behind for a while as we tune into the ancient wisdom of tea. Join us for a deepening of one's connection to nature, to Self, to the stillness of the mind, and to our authentic community. $35. Contact courtney@veraposeyoga.com; victoriaschon.com/event-calendar.

Sacred Cacao Ceremony with Victoria Schon • Sundays, January 30, February 13, 27, March 13, April 3, 24 • 4-5:30 p.m. •

Drinking ceremonial cacao is considered spiritual medicine by many indigenous cultures around the world. As we sit together in a small group and consume this sacred beverage, practice mindfulness, participate in guided meditation with intention in a backdrop of sacred sound, our soul is nourished, our hearts open, and we experience greater spaciousness. It is a time for deeper reflection and connection. 3173 Baker Road, Dexter, Michigan. $40. Contact victoriaschon.com/event-calendar.

Ryaku Fusatsu – Full Moon Ceremony with Rev. Taikodo Marta Dabis • Monthly, Final Sundays: January 30, February 27, March 27, April 24 • 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. •

Participate in a traditional Japanese Soto Zen Full Moon Ceremony as practiced at the San Francisco Zen Center, in English. The program starts with 40 minutes of silent meditation and concludes with informal conversation. Free. Donations accepted. Contact jissojizen@gmail.com, 248-202-3102; jissojizen.org.

Channeling

Remembering Wholeness - Darshan with The Mother, channeled by Barbara Brodsky • Monthly Sundays: February 20, March 20, April 10, May 15, June 12 • 2 - 5 p.m. •

A mother is one who gives birth to, supports, and cherishes, and then releases out into the universe, with love, always ready to hold and support. In Remembering Wholeness as we continue, I will be offering from my own understanding the personal and the group messages that can most support the program participants. Suggested donation: $10-$30 individual; $90-$180 winter/spring. Contact om@deepspring.org.

Evenings with Aaron, channeled by Barbara Brodsky • Monthly Tuesdays: February 15, March 15, April 12, May 17 • 7 - 9 p.m.

• Unlike the previous years' Aaron evenings, where I often simply spoke about a timely topic, my focus this year will be weaving the themes of The Eden Project together. All are welcome. You need not be in The Eden Project classes to find value in these talks. Suggested donation - $10-$30 per session; $90-$180 for winter/spring. Contact om@deepspring.org.

A New Year, A New Meditation Practice

By Elisabeth Sötebeer

As we start a new year, we have a new opportunity to incorporate Meditation in our lives!

A simple way is to choose a small part of your walking path each day: for instance, from your kitchen to the living room or front door to the car. Become aware of each movement, each step and how you place your foot on the Earth—heel to mid-section to ball and toes.

Feel each part as it touches the Earth, become aware of your posture, what your arms are doing, etc. It becomes a quiet meditation.

This moving Meditation brings you in contact with your outer self/physical body, and your inner life—your Self. Connecting with your Inner Self or Higher Self, creates openness for energy to flow freely and easily. Then all starts to become more harmonious!

Try this on a regular basis, keep going and enjoy the stillness.

Crazy Wisdom Poetry Series

Day of Mindfulness with Esther Kennedy, O.P.—Amp Up Your Happiness • February 12 • 10 a.m. • Amp Up Your Happiness. The 4th Noble truth of the Buddha is the Eightfold Path, not a linear path but one that turns and returns. The Buddha’s message of the eight steps to happiness was both simple and profound. He taught us to cultivate skillfulness in our understanding, thinking, speech, action livelihood, effort, mindfulness and concentration. We pause and look more deeply at the 1st three steps. With Skillful Understanding we seek a deeper knowing, with Skillful Thought, we intuitively know our thoughts that cause pain and suffering and those that evoke loving kindness and joy. We practice Skillful Speech and consider our habits and tones of speaking that enhance life and those that diminish life. For more information contact webercenter@adriandominicans.org.

We integrate science, wisdom, and reflection into the teachings and exercises. It will focus on relaxing our bodies, minds, and nervous systems, playing more, connecting to ourselves and others with intention, and growing a mindset that fosters embracing change, our selves, and helps transform our lives. We will learn four meditations and share our experiences. $217.00. A few Pay What You Can and scholarship slots available. Contact Andrea Weid at oncesmallchangeoaching@gmail.com; onesmallchangeoaching.com.

Tai Chi, Martial Arts, and Self Defense

Beginner Tai Chi with Master Wasantha Young • January 10 - April 14; Mondays, 10 - 11:15 a.m. and/or Thursdays, 6 - 7:15 p.m. • The T'ai Chi form is a series of postures linked together in a continuous, fluid manner. As an internal Chinese martial art, the form focuses on self-cultivation, integrates both physical and mental energy mechanics, promotes relaxation, and builds a sense of presence and awareness. All classes will be "Zoomed" (recordings made available) and optional in-person. Maximum students allowed on-site is 9 plus the instructor. $195. Contact info@peacefuldragonschool.com.

Writing and Poetry

Sign-up for new participants begins 6:45 p.m. All sessions are virtual and accessible through Zoom. Free. Contact Edward Morin at 734-668-7523. Email cwpoetrycircle@gmail.com for Zoom link. cwcircle.poetry.blog.

Crazy Wisdom Featured Readers with Mary Minock • January 26 • 7 - 9 p.m. • Mary Minock's new poetry collection, A Time When You Know a House, explores the Southwest Detroit neighborhood where she grew up during the 1950s and 1960s and returned to in 1996. She is the author of The Way-Back Room (memoir) and Love in the Upstairs Flat (poems), and Professor Emerita and former Chair of English at Madonna University. Open Mic reading for 1 hour. All writers welcome to share their own or other favorite poetry. Sign-up begins at 6:45 p.m. Free. All sessions are virtual and accessible through Zoom. Email cwpoetrycircle@gmail.com for Zoom link.

Sit. Stop. Write. –Zen and Poetry with Dmitry Berenson • January 23, February 27, March 27, April 24 • 1:15 - 2:45 p.m. • Like a plant that grows out of bare ground, to express ourselves in poetry we must start from an empty place. We'll do a little meditation and reading from Zen and other sources to help us touch that place and then spring out to write our own poetry. Find your seat; find your voice. Free. Donations welcome. Contact 248-202-3102, jissojizen@gmail.com; jissojizen.org.

Simple Lifelines: Paths Into Stories of the Self with Cindy Guillean • Wednesdays, February 2, 9, 16 • 9 - 11 a.m. or 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. • In this exploratory course, we will use simple lifelines, multi-genre crots, and multi-lifeline visual structures to deepen our awareness of the stories that make up our lived experiences. There will be opportunities to share our processes, insights, and reflections as we discover what stories wish to emerge and how they create sacred meaning in our lives. $120. ## Writers wanted!

The Crazy Wisdom Community Journal is looking for new writers, specifically for writers interested in writing about food and farm related issues, pets, and book reviews. If any of these subjects are of interest to you, please email a letter of interest and links or attachments to previously published writing to jennifer@crazywisdom.net.

We are always on the lookout for good articles about the holistic scene, psychological growth and body/mind modalities, integrative medicine topics, pagan-related subjects, personal journaling and essays, profiles and interviews of local green and sustainable business owners and holistic practitioners, and other feature writing. Please review our writer's guidelines at crazywisdomjournal.com/writers-guidelines. We look forward to reading your article pitches. Please send them to jennifer@crazywisdom.net.
